

Publishing Date: May 2017

Publisher: Ocean Publishing House

A Brief Introduction: Based on extensive practical experience, this book analyzes the legal risks of investing in the Belt and Road Initiative and tries to provide a guideline for investors. This book explains in detail the laws and regulations of the major investment host countries cooperating with the Belt and Road Initiative. While bringing out the problems and difficulties encountered in the investment process, the author also proposes feasible solutions to overcome the challenges. The purpose of the book is to function as a practical investment guide for Chinese investors, help the successful implementation of the Belt and Road Initiative, and make a lawyer's contribution to the realization of the 'Chinese Dream'.

About the Author: Weina ZHU has a bachelor's degree in Foreign Languages and Literature and later obtained the Master of Law. She is a consulting expert for business environment assessment at the World Bank, and a member of the International Investment and Trade Law Committee of the Beijing Lawyers Association. Attorney ZHU focuses her practices on the capital market, bankruptcy and liquidation, corporate compliance, cross-border investment, and related dispute resolutions. She is highly praised by the clients for her pragmatic, efficient, and meticulous service. She has a solid legal knowledge basis and vast practical experience in both litigation and non-litigation cases. She is good at negotiation, has a deep understanding of regulatory policies and the actual demands of enterprises, and is known for resolving issues in frontier fields by proposing innovative solutions.